From Our Rabbi

"Independence is never given to a people. It has to be earned and defended."* - Chaim Weizmann

In order to perpetually celebrate Pesach/Passover in the spring, the Hebrew calendar was set with leap years, adding an entire month to 7 years within every 19 year cycle. The last month of the calendar, Adar, is repeated, giving us Adar the First and Adar the Second, during leap years. With an extra month of Adar, as this year presents, a pressing question arises. When should we celebrate Purim?

Usually, concerning a mitzvah, we take the position of "sooner-the-better." However, in the case of Purim on a leap year, the Talmud (Megilah 6b) explains that it is "preferable to connect [one] redemption to [the other] redemption." Meaning that we postpone our celebrations for Purim until the second month of Adar, in order to keep Purim only one month before Pesach on our calendar. Our sages were hinting to some connection between the two Jewish holidays.

To name just a few of the several connections between Purim and Pesach, both happened in the diaspora, both are celebrated with a festive meal, and both require us to read a story to remind us what took place in our history that birthed the holiday into existence. Purim has the Megillah (Megillat Esther), while Pesach has the Haggadah. Though both texts are read in connection to its respective holiday, there is a major distinction between them. In the Megillah, Hashem (G-d) is NEVER mentioned, while in the Haggadah, ONLY Hashem is mentioned (Moshe is purposely omitted in the traditional text of the Haggadah).

If we were to observe a timeline of the Jewish calendar and holidays, Pesach is actually the first holiday in the first month, Nissan, and Purim is the last holiday on the calendar, in the final month of Adar. From that linear, calendar-timeline, perspective, the holidays move from Hashem hand-holding a people in their national infancy stage to their maturation into an independent, self-sufficient, and successful Nation. In her article titled, I raised 2 successful CEOs and a doctor, author of the book, How to Raise Successful People, Esther Wojcicki states: "There were many unpopular parenting rules I followed as a young mother. But my No. 1 was: Don't do anything for your kids that they can do for themselves."

Psychologist, Jim Taylor, says: "One of your most important goals as a parent is to raise children who become independent and self-reliant people." He coined the Taylor's Law of Family Responsibilities, stating: "if family members fulfill their own responsibilities and do not assume others', then children develop into independent people and everyone is happy." Perhaps, Hashem, as our Loving Parent, redeemed us from Egypt hoping that we, one day, in maturity, would fight to redeem ourselves. Therefore, the culmination of our growth as the Jewish People took place during the struggles to defend our freedom at the time of the Purim story.

From Our President

By the time you read this, we will be rounding out February and heading into March. For many of us, this is the time when those New Year's resolutions made just 6 weeks ago seem to be fading from memory and the excitement of the New Year has made way to the reality of everyday life. Good work can be difficult. However, when we share the work, others learn tasks, understand the value, bring fresh perspectives, and eventually, take ownership and responsibility. This is a built-in succession plan!

To that end, our Annual Meeting is scheduled for Sunday, March 31st @ 11 AM. Enjoy socializing and have coffee, desserts and, of course, Hamentaschen. We'd love to see everyone there. You'll meet our board members in person. There will be no zooming this year. We have an amazing group of core volunteers. Feel free to ask any questions at the meeting; we see and hear from our "regulars" all the time, especially at our annual meeting, but we want to see and hear from ALL of our members.

Save the date: Sunday March 24th @11 AM. We will be celebrating Purim including a special brunch. Bring the family!! Purim is a holiday that occurred in a place called Shushan. Long story made short, the King was looking for a new Queen and a young Jewish woman named Esther entered the competition (under the nudging of her uncle Mordechai) and became Queen. She actually ended up saving the Jewish people from the evil Haman (the king's right-hand man). It is a true Jewish underdog story: the world was out to get us, (sound familiar?) We persevered; did not shy away from our Judaism and traditions and as a result, we survived! This is why we celebrate, dress up, and of course, eat a lot of Hamentaschen cookies!

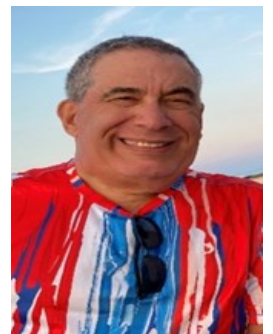

The takeaway message is this: We will face situations in our lives where our strength will be tested. What will we do in the face of adversity? How will our children act if they one day face Anti-Semitism? Especially today, the characters of the Purim story teach us that each and every one of us can be a hero. Each of us has the power to stand up for ourselves, our family, friends, community, and our people. The true message of Purim is that each of us has the power to create incredible change in the world. While we may dress up this Purim and mask our faces in favor of another, we can also work to strengthen our true Jewish identities and, in turn, ensure that a threat like the one in the Purim story, can never happen again.

A Prayer for Israel in this Time of War

God, our Strength and Protection, we pray for the State of Israel in this devastating time of war, shock and grief. Our hearts are breaking, God. We pray for the lives of the innocent civilians who have been heartlessly kidnapped by Hamas, bring them home, watch over them, God. We pray for the lives of the soldiers who have been taken captive, we pray for their safe return, shelter them, God. We pray for the souls of the innocent victims who were brutally slaughtered. Send comfort and strength, God, to the grieving. Send healing to the injured, and strength and wisdom to their doctors and nurses. We pray for all our brothers and sisters in Israel in this time of tragedy and crisis.

Watch over Israel, God, spread Your shelter of peace over the land and over all our brothers and sisters who live there. Shine Your light upon Israel's leaders, officers and advisers, innocent blood is calling out to them to overcome all divisiveness and to act with clarity and determination. Protect the men and women who defend Israel, let them be safe and may they be victorious over the Hamas terrorists who attacked our people. Watch over them, God. Hear their prayers. Bring peace, God. Let it rain down from the heavens like a mighty storm. Let it wash away all hatred and bloodshed.

Peace, God, please, God.

God of the brokenhearted, God of the living, God of the dead, gather the souls of the victims into Your eternal shelter. Let them find peace in Your presence, God. Their lives have ended, but their lights can never be extinguished. May they shine on us always and illuminate our way.

Amen

All the people of Israel are responsible for one another

We strive to make a significant impact through scholarships and programs that benefit students at The Jewish Theological Seminary, Ziegler School of Rabbinic Studies, Schechter Institutes, Seminario Rabinico Latinoamericano and Zacharias Frankel College.

Thanks to the generosity of our donors, we help committed Jewish students become the rabbis, cantors, educators, synagogue administrators, social workers, scholars, researchers and lay leaders of tomorrow.

When you support Torah Fund, you help educate students in New York, Los Angeles, Israel, Latin America and Europe—and you align with those who value learning, knowledge and providing the future generation with relevant skills to fortify the Jewish people.

This pin highlights the word 'arevut,' responsibility. It corresponds to the theme from the Babylonian Talmud, Shevuot 39a, that all the people of Israel are responsible for one another, and we assume that responsibility through our support of the five Conservative/Masorti institutions of higher education.
